Five arrested, gun recovered in Big Papi shooting in Dom Rep

David Ortiz was recovering in a Boston hospital.

Police in the Dominican Republic have arrested five people in the shooting of former Boston Red Sox star David Ortiz in a plot that authorities on Wednesday said was more complex than originally thought.

The arrests came as Ortiz, 43, recovered in a Boston hospital following a second round of surgery on Tuesday, according to his family, which said he was sitting up and had taken a few steps.

The plot to kill Ortiz, a national hero in the Dominican Republic, involved two men on a motorcycle working with two other groups of people in cars, said National Police Chief Ney Aldrin Bautista Almonte.

He also said the gun used in the shooting had been recovered.

"It didn't just involve two people, more people took part," Bautista told a press conference, adding that another person linked to the plot nicknamed "The Surgeon" still remained at large.

Ortiz, widely known as "Big Papi," is a sports legend in Boston for his role in three World Series baseball championships as well as his profane and inspiring remarks in the days after the 2013 Boston Marathon bombing.

He retired in 2016 after hitting 541 career home runs, which ranks 17th all-time in Major League Baseball.

Ortiz was shot in the torso on Sunday evening while seated at an open-air nightclub in Santo Domingo, the capital of his native country, after the gunman rolled up on a motorcycle. Ortiz's friend Jhoel Lopez, a television host, was also wounded in the shooting.

Police quickly arrested one suspect, identified as Eddy Feliz Garcia, who was detained and beaten by bystanders at the scene.

SECOND SURGERY IN BOSTON

Ortiz underwent a first round of surgery in Santo Domingo late on Sunday before being flown the following day to Boston's Massachusetts General Hospital, where he underwent more surgery.

A trauma and acute care surgeon was leading the team treating Ortiz, his wife, Tiffany Ortiz, said in a statement on Wednesday.

On Tuesday "and this morning, David was able to sit up as well as take some steps," she said on Wednesday. "His condition is guarded and he will remain in the [intensive care unit] for the coming days, but he is making good progress toward recovery."

Feliz appeared in court on Tuesday evening, charged with being an accomplice in the attempted murder of Ortiz. His lawyer, Deivi Solano, told reporters outside the court that the judge had agreed to postpone a hearing until Wednesday afternoon.

Justina Garcia, the mother of Feliz who remained in custody, told reporters the charges against her son were a "lie."

"They can't link it to him because he is not a criminal," she said. REUTERS

Gooding Jr. to turn himself in after groping allegation

2 Actor Cuba Gooding Jr. intends to turn himself in to New York City police after a woman accused him of groping her at a Manhattan bar over the weekend, NBC News reported on Wednesday, citing Gooding's representative. The Oscar-wining actor plans to present himself to the NYPD's sex crimes unit on Thursday, according to NBC News. The woman, who was not identified, alleged that Gooding touched her breasts at the bar on Sunday night, the network said, citing law enforcement sources. In a video posted on TMZ.com, Gooding denied that he had groped anyone. The actor said he went to a bar, talked and took pictures with people, and left. "I trust the system," he said as he walked through Los Angeles International Airport, adding that there was a tape "that shows what really happened." REUTERS

Ex-coach avoids prison in college admissions scandal

3 A former Stanford University sailing coach avoided prison on Wednesday in the first sentencing to result from the U.S. college admissions scandal after admitting he took bribes to help children of wealthy parents gain admission to the school. John Vandemoer, 41, was sentenced by U.S. District Judge Rya Zobel in Boston to six months of home confinement, rejecting prosecutors' request for a 13-month prison term after he pleaded guilty in March to racketeering conspiracy. Vandemoer is among 50 people, including actresses Lori Loughlin and Felicity Huffman, who were charged in March with participating in a vast scheme overseen by California college admissions consultant William "Rick" Singer. Prosecutors said parents paid Singer more than $25 million to bribe coaches at major universities to help their children gain admission as fake athletic recruits. REUTERS

Sphinx of Ramses II hauled to new home in Penn Museum

The 25,000-pound, 3,000-year-old statue has a new home in the museum's main lobby.

NATE HOMAN
letters@metro.us

The tallest sphinx in the Western Hemisphere has moved.

On Wednesday morning, the statue was painstakingly moved to the Penn Museum's main lobby from its Egypt Gallery, where it has resided since 1926.

"The sphinx will serve as the centerpiece to the grand Main Entrance Hall, welcoming visitors to explore our outstanding collections that do much more than illustrate the past; they unlock the wonder of the human story to foster empathy, build connections and create understanding in a complex world," Julian Siggers, the Williams Director at the Penn Museum, said in a statement.

> "The sphinx weighs about 25,000 pounds. So what's the equivalent of that? Well, that's about 12 Liberty Bells, 87 Philadelphia Phanatics and 64,000 cheesesteaks."
> Julian Siggers, the Williams Director at the Penn Museum

"The sphinx has long been our unofficial mascot; this move puts it front and center, as the anchor of our new visitor experience."

So how does one move a 25,000-pound, 3,000-year-old statue of Ramses II for the first time in almost a century? Good question. Prior to hauling the pharaoh, experts had a monumental amount of math and physics to calculate.

"There are a lot of factors contributing to the timing, including Philadelphia's unpredictable weather, the historic nature of the building and the inherent fragility of historic objects," Project Manager Bob Thurlow said on the museum's website. "We won't know until we actually do it."

Luckily, the move was a success.

Before moving the statue so much as an inch, the sphinx had to be 3-D-scanned to determine its weight and density to make sure the appropriate rigging equipment could be used. Museum officials strapped Ramses II to air dollies to move the ancient statue a grand total of about 250 feet through a labyrinth of doorways, windows, sharp turns and tight spaces in order to arrive at its new home in the museum's main lobby.

The sphinx of Ramses II, history's most well-known pharaoh who reigned in ancient Egypt for nearly 67 years and fathered more than 100 children, arrived by boat at Port Richmond on October 7, 1913, during the World Series. It was taken from the Temple of Ptah at Memphis, Egypt, and shipped up the Delaware River by a German freighter before it was unloaded onto a railcar using a massive crane at the Philadelphia and Reading Railway Company cargo terminal.

Black bear spotted on SEPTA tracks in East Falls

On Wednesday morning, a bear was seen running down the Manayunk/Norristown Line tracks.

BECCA GLASSER-BAKER
Rebecca.Glasser@metro.us

The Philly area's recent rash of bear sightings continued Wednesday when a black bear was spotted roaming the SEPTA tracks along East Falls.

At 11:07 a.m. Wednesday, officials told Metro that they had received a call about a "loose bear" running down the highway near Calumet Street and Heritage Drive in East Falls.

Phillyvoice.com reported that the bear ran down the Manayunk/Norristown SEPTA line.

The first glimpse of the bear was caught at 11:20 a.m., by CBS Philly's Chopper 3 helicopter.

Police reported that the Game Commission was taking care of the bear and had notified SEPTA regional rails about it. Citizen.com users showed a video claiming that wildlife conservation officers were also on the scene.

Outlets reported that the sighting did not impact SEPTA service.

Citizen.com also claimed that officers were advised to "take aggressive action against the bear" or "chase the bear up a tree."

When faced with a bear, the Pennsylvania Game Commission's website claims you are supposed to "make noise and alert the bear of your presence; back away from the bear slowly while facing the bear; remain calm while avoiding sudden movements; pay close attention because they are trying to figure out what you are, and once they do, they usually leave. If a black bear attacks, (which is rare) fight."

Game Warden Dustin Stoner of the Pennsylvania Game Commission told Inquirer.com, "This is the time of year when we get a lot of bear calls."

The commission reported that seeing bears this time of year is not uncommon because they mate this time of year. It is also when cubs start to explore the world on their own.

This is one of many recent bear sightings in the Philly metro area. It is the third bear incident to happen within the last few days.

On Monday, there were video reports of a bear in the Springfield area, though it was not caught. A bear was later spotted Tuesday in the Wyndmoor area.

Additionally over the weekend, Warrington Township and Bucks County officials received reports of a black bear in the area, which was handled by the Game Commission.

Philly police took to Twitter to make sure Philadelphians know to call 911 if residents spot a bear. Bear sightings can also be reported to the commission's local office at 610-926-3136.

As of Wednesday evening, the black bear had not been caught.

Woman fatally stabbed over Philly parking spot dispute

A young woman died from stab wounds following an alleged argument over a parking space.

Philadelphia police have arrested a woman who allegedly stabbed another woman to death during a dispute over a parking spot on Tuesday night.

Cops said they received multiple reports of an altercation over a parking spot that turned violent at about 9:30 p.m. on the 5300 block of Lena Street in East Germantown. Officers reportedly arrived at the scene to find the 27-year-old victim lying in the street bleeding from two stab wounds to her chest. The victim was said to be unresponsive, but showed signs of life when she was transported to the hospital. She died about a half-hour later.

Witnesses told police that a 26-year-old woman wearing pink shorts and having red braids had stabbed the victim.

"Police put this description out and 14th District officers did a great job," Philadelphia Police Chief Inspector Scott Small told ABC Philly. "About three blocks away they saw a female fitting that description with the red braids, the pink shorts. They stopped that female, they brought a witness to the stabbing to the location and [the] witness positively identified the female."

Police said that there were no indications that the two knew each other prior to the deadly altercation. Their identities were not immediately released.

Zuckerberg may have known of questionable privacy practices: WSJ

Facebook emails appear to show Chief Executive Officer Mark Zuckerberg's involvement in discussions about its much criticized privacy practices, the Wall Street Journal reported on Wednesday, citing people familiar with the matter.

The newspaper said reporters had not seen the emails and relied on unnamed people. The report said the communications "appear to show Chief Executive Mark Zuckerberg's connection to potentially problematic privacy practices at the company." Shares of the Menlo Park, California-based company were down 1.8 percent at $174.9 in early afternoon trading.

The emails have raised concerns within the company that they could be a public relations problem, at least, for Facebook, the WSJ reported, citing one of the people familiar with the matter.

REUTERS

The Federal Trade Commission (FTC) has been investigating allegations that Facebook inappropriately shared information belonging to 87 million users with the now-defunct British political consulting firm Cambridge Analytica.

The FTC and the Department of Justice, which enforce antitrust laws in the United States, are also gearing up to investigate whether tech giants Amazon.com Inc., Apple Inc., Facebook and Alphabet's Google misuse their massive market power.

The company's move to reach a speedy settlement of the FTC investigation is in part because of the emails, according to the WSJ report. The Journal said it could not determine what emails the FTC has requested and how many of them relate to Zuckerberg.

Facebook said it has fully cooperated with the FTC investigation to date and provided tens of thousands of documents, emails and files.

"Facebook and its executives, including Mark, at all times strive to comply with all applicable law, and at no point did Mark or any other Facebook employee knowingly violate the company's obligations under the FTC consent order," a company spokesman said in an email. REUTERS

Trump shields census docs as Congress votes to hold two in contempt

Congress voted to hold Wilbur Ross and William Barr in contempt.

President Donald Trump asserted executive privilege on Wednesday to keep under wraps documents on adding a citizenship question to the 2020 U.S. census, defying a House panel's subpoena in another move to stonewall Democratic lawmakers' investigations.

Despite Trump's assertion of the legal doctrine, the House of Representatives Committee on Oversight and Reform pressed forward and voted to hold two members of Trump's Cabinet — Commerce Secretary Wilbur Ross and Attorney General William Barr — in contempt of Congress over the census matter.

Asked about the issue, Trump told reporters at the White House: "When you have a census and you're not allowed to talk about whether or not somebody's a citizen or not, that doesn't sound so good to me. ... It's totally ridiculous that we would have a census without asking."

The fight over adding a citizenship question to the census presents high stakes for both Trump's fellow Republicans and the Democrats, with the 2020 U.S. elections looming. The U.S. Supreme Court is due to rule by the end of this month in the Trump administration's appeal of a judge's ruling blocking the addition of the question as a violation of federal law.

The judge's ruling came in a lawsuit by a group of states including New York and immigrant rights organizations arguing that the inclusion of a citizenship question would frighten immigrants and Latinos into abstaining from participating in the decennial national population count because of fear of immigration enforcement.

Critics have said Republicans want to engineer a deliberate population undercount in Democratic-leaning areas where many immigrants live in order to gain seats in the House. The census population count is used to allot seats in the House and to guide distribution of billions of dollars of federal funds.

The Oversight Committee is looking into how the Trump administration devised its plan to add a citizenship question. The committee has said that Ross, whose department runs the census, told the panel that he added the question "solely" at the request of the Justice Department.

However, committee Democrats have said documents show that Ross "began a secret campaign" to add the citizenship question to the census questionnaire shortly after taking office and months before being formally asked to do so by the Justice Department. REUTERS

Old City hot spot Fork is featuring a rosé-inspired pop-up garden every Friday throughout the summer.

MOLLY GIVEN
Molly.Given@metro.us

Every Friday this summer, head to the land of roses and rosé at one of Old City's hottest spot, Fork. Fork opened its pop-up Rosé Garden last week and already the flowery and seasonal escape is a hit in the City of Brotherly Love.

"Philly is a great beer garden town, but everyone loves rosé at this time of year, and what could be more beautiful than a real rose garden in the heart of historic Old City?" said Fork owner Ellen Yin, in a release. "We drew our inspiration from Independence National Historic Park's nearby Rose Garden, where the founding fathers might have enjoyed a glass or two al fresco, imported from early allies like France, and our own Rosé Garden will also feature more diverse, contemporary rosé wines from around the world, every Friday, all summer long."

Every week, the magical escape will feature a vast selection of refreshing rosés from around the world. All of the selections will be available by the glass, bottle or in a flight. The enticing libations will also be joined by a rosé-inspired menu straight from Fork's kitchen. Last week's kickoff featured rosés from Italy (the Cleto Chiarli, "Vecchia Modena," Lambrusco di Sobrara Secco), Hungary (the Pannonhalmi Transdanubia, 2016 Pinot Noir blend) and Chile (the Prisma, Valle de Casablanca, 2018 Pinot Noir).

Fork's rosé-inspired food menu is also one for the books. Philadelphians can indulge in oysters with rosé granita on the half shell; tea sandwiches with cucumber, shaved spring asparagus and dill spread on High Street potato bread; watermelon salad with feta, cucumber, strawberries and rosé-compressed watermelon, dressed with olive oil and lime juice; strawberry cheesecake with strawberry-balsamic sauce and strawberries compressed with mint and pistachios; a cheese board featuring a 2-ounce portion of cheese with chef-crafted accoutrements; strawberry-lavender snow cones; plus a rotating weekly wine served over house-made sorbet with edible flowers.

The Rosé Garden is decorated with photo-friendly spots filled with roses and offers the perfect summer weekend escape. According to a release, the Rosé Garden specials are available exclusively in the outdoor garden and at the bar, including weekly happy hour specials through 7 p.m.

Fork's Rosé Garden is open Fridays from 5:30 to 10 p.m. throughout the summer. Fork is located at 306 Market St. For more information, visit forkrestaurant.com.

Ideas for your family vacation in Miami

Surprise! Florida's hub for culture and cool is also kid-friendly. JODI MAILANDER FARRELL

Miami boasts a global reputation for its nightlife and arts scene, but the city is also packed with entertaining and enriching things to do as a family. Year-round subtropical warmth makes it a great getaway for making lifetime memories.

And there's an added benefit: Miami's diverse Latin American and Caribbean heritage translates into great opportunities to introduce children to different cultures.

Art

The former warehouse district of Wynwood is now a trendy, walkable 'hood perfect for exposing kids to the gritty art of graffiti (which also makes eye-catching backdrops for family photos). Wynwood Walls, 2520 NW 2nd Ave., is a good starting point. The ever-changing outdoor collection of huge, colorful murals by street artists from around the world is free and open to the public.

Before it turns into an adult block party after 10 p.m., Wynwood Yard, 56 NW 29th St., also is an inventive outdoor hub for kids to run around. There's an edible garden, music, a bar for parents, food trucks, and pop-up craft and food vendors selling everything from mac-and-cheese and empanadas to smoothies and vegetarian dishes. Taking a cue from Disney's FastPass, there's even a free food-ordering app called The Wynwood Yard, so you can avoid standing in line.

For dessert, cruise by the Asian-inspired food hall called 1-800-LUCKY at 143 NW 23rd St. to try its famous Taiyiki ice cream, served in fun, Instagram-ready, koi fish-shaped cones.

Film & Music

Miami Beach's SoundScape Park, 400 17th St., is a modern, landscaped space that's the perfect perch for viewing films and concerts projected onto the New World Center's soaring 7,000-square-foot outdoor wall. From November through May, free WALLCAST classical music concerts by New World Symphony mean you can grab a blanket and watch your kids do cartwheels while Beethoven and Brahms fill the air. During the same period, free movies – from favorites like "Big" and "Edward Scissorhands" to new releases – are offered at 8 p.m. on Wednesdays. Check the latest schedule here.

Family Beaches

Matheson Hammock Park, 9610 Old Cutler Rd., in the Miami suburb of Coral Gables is a favorite retreat for locals with young children because it has a shallow, wave-free lagoon with lifeguards.

On nearby Key Biscayne, Bill Baggs Cape Florida State Park, 1200 Crandon Blvd., has a stretch of stand regularly named one of the Top 10 beaches in the United States. The state park also has a historic lighthouse with tours, two outdoor restaurants, and bike rentals, including surreys that seat four to six people. You can catch a view of Miami's Stiltsville, a collection of wood stilt houses in Biscayne Bay, from the wooded bike path.

In Miami Beach, Sabrina's Adaptive Beach, 6500 Collins Ave., is an accessible beach with an inclusive playground. The park has a tailored, ADA-accessible dune crossing so people of all ages and abilities can enjoy the ocean.

Extraordinary Pools

One of the most beautiful public pools, the historic, 1923 Venetian Pool at 2701 DeSoto Blvd. in Coral Gables is worth the drive to the suburbs. It's a spring-fed coral rock quarry with waterfalls and cave-like grottos patrolled on busy days by lifeguards riding surfboards. It's a diaper-free facility so children under the age of three are not allowed in the park.

If you have a little one, Flamingo Park, 999 11th St., in Miami Beach has the pool for you. Its aquatic center has a zero-depth entry play pool perfect for wading with babies and toddlers.

Young thrill seekers will enjoy the water slides, lazy river and splash pools of Grapeland Water Park, 1550 NW 37th Ave., near Miami International Airport.

Food Culture

Head to Calle Ocho (8th Street) in Little Havana for a taste of Latin cuisine. Versailles, 3555 SW 8th Street, is the mirror-lined, Cuban equivalent of Denny's, with tropical fruit shakes, media noche ham-and-pork sandwiches, croquettes and plantains.

For dessert, sample the Latin-infused scoops at Azucar Ice Cream Company 1503 SW 8th St., known for flavors derived from Cuban coffee, key limes, caramel flan, sweet corn and calabaza. Be sure to snap a family photo in front of the tiny shop's colorful painting of Celia Cruz, the most popular Latin artist of the 20th century, known for her catch phrase, ¡Azúcar! (sugar).

In Miami's Little Haiti neighborhood, the Little Haiti Cultural Complex's Caribbean Marketplace, 5925 NE 2nd Ave., features dishes by Latin and Caribbean celebrity chefs every second Friday of the month.

'Indoor Kid Zones

Seek out air-conditioned fun at Miami's many indoor escapes. Hands-on experiments, a touch tank, planetarium, local birds of prey exhibit and a stunning, three-story aquarium make for an all-ages retreat in downtown Miami at the Frost Museum of Science, 1101 Biscayne Blvd.

Next door at the Perez Art Museum, 1103 Biscayne Blvd., ask at the front desk for a Family Pack, which includes activity sheets, pencil kits, puzzles and scavenger hunts to explore the galleries.

For kids 10 and under, a play cruise ship, supermarket and kid-sized TV studio are part of the fun at Miami Children's Museum, 980 MacArthur Cswy.

Thrill seekers will want to head back to Wynwood for FunDimension, 2129 NW 1st Ct., an indoor playground packed with arcade and virtual reality games, laser tag, bumper cars, and a bungee dome.

Animal Life

Ever felt a giraffe's 18-inch prehensile tongue curl around your hand? At Zoo Miami's Samburu Giraffe Feeding Station, families stand on a tall wooden platform to get eye-to-eye and feed greens by hand to a herd of African giraffes. There are also camel rides and more than 2,000 animals at the cage-free attraction, 12400 SW 152nd St., the largest tropical zoo in the continental United States.

In Everglades National Park, discover alligators, great blue herons and other native species in the wild by renting bikes for the 15-mile, paved trail or taking the two-hour tram tour inside the park's Shark Valley, 36000 SW 8th St., a 50-minute drive from downtown Miami.

Back in the city, Jungle Island eco-adventure park at 1111 Parrot Jungle Trail, between Downtown Miami and South Beach, brings parrots, lemurs, sloths and other animals up close for interactive encounters. There's also a 22-acre rainforest, an 80-foot high zipline and free-flight wind tunnel.

Nearby, Miami Seaquarium, 4400 Rickenbacker Causeway, offers swim-with-dolphin (or seal) encounters, touch pools and sea life exhibits.

Book your family summer 'spa-cation' at Coconut Bay Beach Resort & Spa

patrick.king@metro.us

We all deserve a vacation. But while certain people have a proclivity towards sandy beaches or bustling cities and cultural epicenters, sometimes those trips can be a little less relaxing than you had initially hoped for. At Coconut Bay Beach Resort & Spa you will find more than sun and sand as you will be able to relax, rejuvenate and turn your vacation into a family spacation Saint Lucian style this summer.

At this award-winning beach resort's Kai Mer Spa, guests will receive treatments using the finest organic, cruelty free products along with local ingredients like coconut oil and cocoa harvested from St. Lucian plantations in the resort's Coconut and Chocolate Scrubs, as well as freshly harvested aloe vera in the resort's Aloe Vera Wrap picked directly from the resort's garden. If you and your partner are both looking to spend your trip unwinding in a similar spa-centric way, you can book a couple's Lava Shell Massage at the oceanfront spa cabana where the spa comes to you. Your kids won't miss out on this special treatment either, as the Children's and Teen's spa menu includes a Princess Mani/Pedi and a Diva Facial that they can enjoy as well.

Adults can further their relaxation outside of the spa with tastings of both local hand-crafted beers and Caribbean Rum before or after taking the whole family for some turtle watching this summer. The resort's Turtle Scout program educates guests about the gorgeous endangered sea turtles of the area and the need for their protection as they lay and hatch eggs along the island's mile-long beach.

While you may be enjoying your relaxing time at the spa or taking your kids on a turtle watching trip, your teens might want to enjoy something that's a little more their speed. With Coconut Bay Beach Resort & Spa's new Teen Club, they will find an assortment of video games and pool tables in the game room and be able to partake in fun activities like the Teen Colors Reggae Beach Party and Bon Fire and the Tree House Party at the resort's poolside Jerk Tree House restaurant.

Every member of your family will find something to enjoy at the resort's Waterpark. If your mind is still set on relaxing to the fullest this vacation, you can kickback and have some fun with standup paddle boarding, kayaking, or simply floating around the Lazy River. If you choose to do a little more than sightsee the beautiful coastline on your paddle board or kayak, you can book a snorkeling trip to head below sea level to say hello to some of Saint Lucia's underwater life. And while you're in one of the world's most picturesque islands you should definitely explore with a visit to the world-famous Pitons, a UNESCO World Heritage Site and the island's unique drive-in volcano and mud baths. For a vacation with an extended family group, the resort's friendly Adventure Desk staff can organize a private sunset catamaran sail or half-day island tour just for you.

Will Kevin Durant's Achilles injury affect the Sixers' summer?

The Warriors star's injury could greatly alter this summer's free-agency period.

JOE PANTORNO
joseph.pantorno@metro.us

While the Philadelphia 76ers aren't believed to be in on the Kevin Durant free-agency sweepstakes, the 10-time All-Star's injury in Game 5 of the NBA Finals could have an impact on their offseason plans.

The Warriors star, originally expected to decline his $31.5 million option this summer and hit unrestricted free agency on Jul. 1, went down with an Achilles injury on Tuesday night.

It is still unknown how long Durant will be out, but the emotional reactions of GM Bob Myers and his teammates indicate that things are not good.

At worst, Durant is out for the entirety of the 2019-20 season, which is going to affect the summer spending-spree plans of several teams around the league.

Teams like the New York Knicks, Brooklyn Nets, and Los Angeles Clippers are tabbed as some of the major players for the 30-year-old's services this summer. They could offer him a max deal of four years worth $141 million.

That's quite the investment this summer for a player who could be sidelined for the first year of the contract.

Because the Warriors have his rights, they could give Durant even more at five years worth around $220 million in a supermax deal.

Kevin Durant's injury could send Jimmy Butler's market skyrocketing. GETTY IMAGES

With Durant's market expected to take a downturn, those of some other big names could skyrocket.

That includes the likes of 76ers starters Jimmy Butler and Tobias Harris.

Both were acquired via trade for some heavy prices during the 2018-19 season, which would make their departures a difficult pill to swallow.

Butler stands to gain the most out of Durant's injury seeing as he possesses an ability to take a game over with his offensive playmaking abilities.

While it isn't as prolific as the two-time Finals MVP, Butler still has averaged 21.2 points per game over the past five years. It will make his value that much more attractive if Durant is out for a considerable time frame.

For a team like the New York Knicks that is desperate for a playmaker and has two max-salary slots open, that could be bad news for Butler's chances of staying in Philadelphia.

As for Harris, it looks as though the Sixers' largest threat to lure him away is the Brooklyn Nets, per the Athletic's Michael Scotto. Harris, a Long Island native, and the Nets have a mutual interest. He also has connections with head coach Kenny Atkinson.

Sports betting 101: Golf wagering

SugarHouse Casino's sportsbook manager dishes out the basics of sports betting.

JIM LLEWELLYN

Jim Llewellyn is the sportsbook manager at SugarHouse Casino.

GETTY IMAGES

It's hard to believe, but the US Open golf tournament at Pebble Beach this weekend will already be the third major golf event this year.

Betting on golf can bet quite fun, as you're betting on an individual player rather than a whole team. It's also quite simple.

The most popular form of betting on golf is "finishing position." At MetroBet.us/Sugar right now, there are odds on individual golfers to be the winner of the event and also odds on a top 5, a top 10, and a top 20 finish.

For instance, Dustin Johnson is currently the favorite to win the US Open at MetroBet.us/Sugar. Johnson has +700 odds to win the event, meaning if you bet $100 for him to capture the crown and he does so, you would win $700 and get a payout of $800.

As for Johnson's odds to have a top 20 finish, he is -250. Given that it's much more likely that he finishes anywhere in the top 20 rather than only in first place, the payout here is substantially less.

If you bet $100 on Johnson at -250 odds at MetroBet.us/Sugar and he finishes in the top 20, you would win $40 and get a payout of $140.

Of course, you don't have to bet as much as $100. For instance, if you bet $20 on Tiger Woods to win the event at +1100 odds at MetroBet.us/Sugar you would win $220 and get a payout of $240.

Another bet being offered right now at MetroBet.us/Sugar on the U.S. Open is the "Leader after Round 1." Those odds are a bit lower, but offer bigger payouts.

To take advantage of all of these betting opportunities and more, go to MetroBet.us/Sugar and enter promo code METROBET to get a first-deposit match bonus for up to $250.

NBA Finals Game 6 game pick

Raptors at Warriors

The Warriors historically rowdy crowd will be extra juiced for this one given that the Toronto fan base actually cheered when Kevin Durant went down with that gruesome injury in Game 5. They'll have payback ready, in the form of Seattle Seahawks-level crowd noise whenever the Raptors have possession of the ball.

It's easy to forget given how brilliant Kawhi Leonard has been in this series, but Leonard entered the Finals with injury concerns of his own. The two days off will help wonders, but Leonard does seem to be showing some fatigue after playing 23 high-intensity playoff games over the past two months. Leonard had his worst shooting night of the Finals in the last game, going 9-of-24 from the field.

The Warriors have also been doing a better job of keeping Leonard away from the free-throw line where he typically racks up a ton of points. In Game 5, Leonard went to the charity stripe just eight times. That's a far cry from the 16 times he got to the line in Game 2. The Warriors have all of the momentum in this series, and a Game 7 looks inevitable.

The play: Warriors -2.5

MetroBet recently had the opportunity to speak with Rush Street Gaming COO Mattias Stetz about SugarHouse's online launch in the state of Pennsylvania. Rush Street Interactive is SugarHouse's partner in online sports betting, having operated PlaySugarHouse.com in New Jersey as well since last August.

Here is a Q&A with Stetz.

How has the exclusive launch in PA gone so far?
It's been something we've been working on for a long time so we are pleased to finally be live! Because we are used to operating an online sportsbook in New Jersey, things have gone smoothly so far. After a three day trial period, we are now open 24 hours a day and players are coming in from all over the state. The feedback has been really positive, and in case anyone didn't know, people in PA really like their sports!

How exciting was the launch for everyone involved at SugarHouse?
Very exciting. It's not easy to be the first company to the market and we're proud that we were able to do it.

What are some of the betting offers SugarHouse is introducing online?
Starting each game day at 10 a.m., we are offering "vig free" bets on the NBA Finals up to $250. This means that we do not take any house cut on this bet. This is only available online and is to celebrate our launch. As far as sports betting offers go, you can't beat free! As far as regular bets, we have literally thousands of different bets available on a daily basis. The Phillies have been particularly popular with us this season with the addition of Bryce Harper. One Bryce Harper bet that people enjoy is "Will Bryce Harper hit a home run?"

Any specific bets that online bettors prefer compared to retail bettors?
Online, you can take as much time as you need to find a bet and add up to 12 teams per parlay. Also, "live, in-game" betting is more popular online. These are bets that happen once the game already starts. Many players like to log in during timeouts, halftime, or whenever they feel like making a bet! Players are telling us they love the online sportsbook due to its ease and that they can place a bet from home, the corner sports bar, or anywhere on the go throughout Pennsylvania.

You can bet on live sports now at MetroBet.us/Sugar
Use promo code METROBET to receive a $250 first-deposit match bonus.

NBA Finals Game 6 betting preview

Raptors at Warriors

With Kevin Durant definitely out, oddsmakers first put Golden State on the board at -3.5. Sharps bet Toronto with the hook, and many kept betting the Raptors when global sportsbooks dropped to -2.5. We may see a closer below three depending on game-day action.

Why so much sharp interest in the potentially demoralized underdog?

While Toronto may still be suffering shellshock, it has established superiority when Durant is in street clothes. And, Golden State's extended series life was the result of a massive 20-8 edge in made 3-pointers Monday (on 47.6 percent to 25 percent). That will be very tough to replicate. Toronto had made six more treys in the series through the first five games.

Toronto is still a hefty -300 to win the title (risk $300 to win $100, or anything in that ratio). The market isn't yet anticipating any sort of "choke job of the century." The Raptors have two chances to win one game. They will likely be at least three point home favorites in a seventh game if needed.

What you missed at Day 6 of the FIFA Women's World Cup

Nigeria is back in the hunt to make the knockout round with a bit of luck against South Korea to open Wednesday's slate of play.

A South Korean own goal off Kim Doyeon was allowed to stand despite a clear hand ball by Nigeria's Desire Oparanozie in the 29th minute. The Nigerian forward clearly extended her left hand and made contact with the ball before it rolled into the South Korean net.

Asisat Oshoala put the game on ice in the 75th to eliminate South Korea.

Germany moved to the top of Group B with its 1-0 win over Spain, who led the foursome after Matchday 1.

Poor defending from Spain's captain and defender Marta Torrejon, who was too slow to clear a ball sitting just outside the left post, was tapped in by a sliding Sara Dabritz in the 42nd minute. It was Dabritz's third-ever World Cup goal.

The 2007 World Cup and 2016 Olympic champions can now clinch their spot in the knockout round today if China draws or loses against South Africa.

A controversial VAR penalty bailed hosts France out of its second match in Group A play in a 2-1 victory.

Eugenie Le Sommer continued her goal-scoring dominance on the international stage, slotting away the game-winning penalty in the 72nd minute.

Norway found a reply to Valerie Gauvin's opener that came just a minute into the second half thanks to an own goal off France's Wendie Renard. The defender inexplicably tapped a harmless cross into the back of her net to make the host's outing an uncomfortable one.

The JUDGMENT under or pursuant to which your property is being sold is docketed to: No. 180701627

THE NAME(S) OF THE OWNER(S) OR REPUTED OWNER(S) OF THIS PROPERTY ARE: All Known Heirs of Elton Nock and All Unknown Heirs of Elton Nock

A SCHEDULE OF DISTRIBUTION, being a list of the persons and/or governmental or corporate entities or agencies being entitled to receive part of the proceeds of the sale received and to be disbursed by the Sheriff (for example to banks that hold mortgages and municipalities that are owed taxes), will be filed by the Sheriff thirty (30) days after the sale, and distribution of the proceeds of sale in accordance with this schedule will, in fact, be made unless someone objects by filing exceptions to it, within ten (10) days of the date it is filed.
